Anene Gabriel Ifezue is a dedicated public servant, devoted family man, and faithful Christian. Born in Anambra State, he is the second child out of four siblings.

Anene Gabriel Ifezue attended Nnamdi Azikiwe University, Awka, where he earned a degree in his field of study. He went on to work for over 30 years with the Nigerian Customs Service, rising to the rank of Assistant Superintendent of Customs (Asc1) before his retirement in 2015. During his time with the Customs Service, he traveled across 36 states nationwide, gaining valuable experience and serving his country with distinction.

Anene Gabriel Ifezue is a committed Christian and serves in his local church as a Deacon and Elder. He is passionate about helping children in need and has done several outreaches to children in orphanages and abandoned homes, bringing them joy and hope. He believes that by helping children, we can make a positive impact on the world and inspire future generations to greatness.

In addition to his professional and religious commitments, Anene Gabriel Ifezue enjoys watching football, eating good food, and reading. His watchword is "Trust and obey God," a motto that has guided him throughout his life and inspired him to be a man of integrity and honor.

Despite his many achievements, Anene Gabriel Ifezue is most proud of his role as a loving husband and father to his three children. His commitment to his family and his community is a testament to his kind heart and generous spirit.
